BOOMERS: Consumer spending 3X from 1981-2000, 54% to 58% of GDP

Consumer spending rose from a multi-decade low in 1981 to a peak in 1999.

• During this time, PCE ex-healthcare, rose from $1,694 billion to $6,020 billion, or a 3X increase in 15 years.

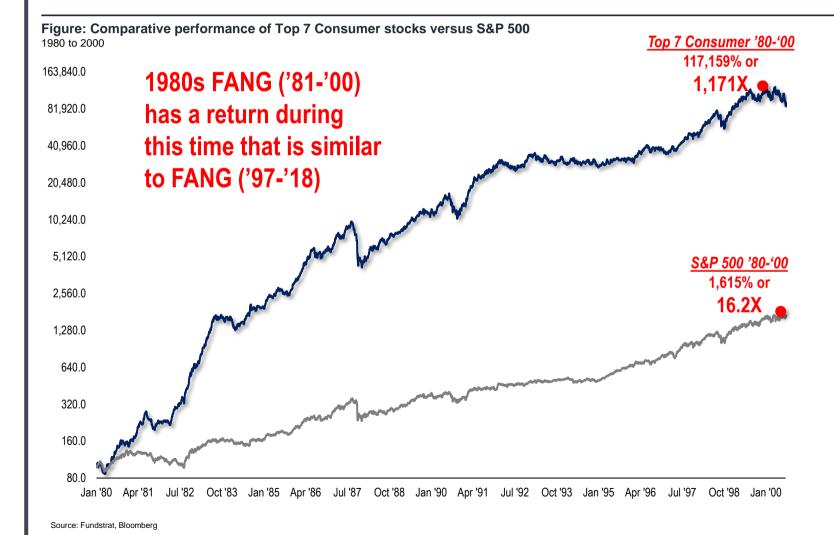

BOOMERS: Top 7 Consumer stocks—WCHHGLD—1,171X

The comparative performance of the top 7 Consumer stocks vs S&P 500 is below. The top 7 consumer stocks (then) were: Walmart, Circuit City, Hasbro, Home Depot, Gap, Limited Brands and Dillards.

• The relative performance of these Top 7 large-cap consumer stocks was staggering, gaining 117,159% during that time, or a 1,171X compared to a 16X increase in the S&P 500.

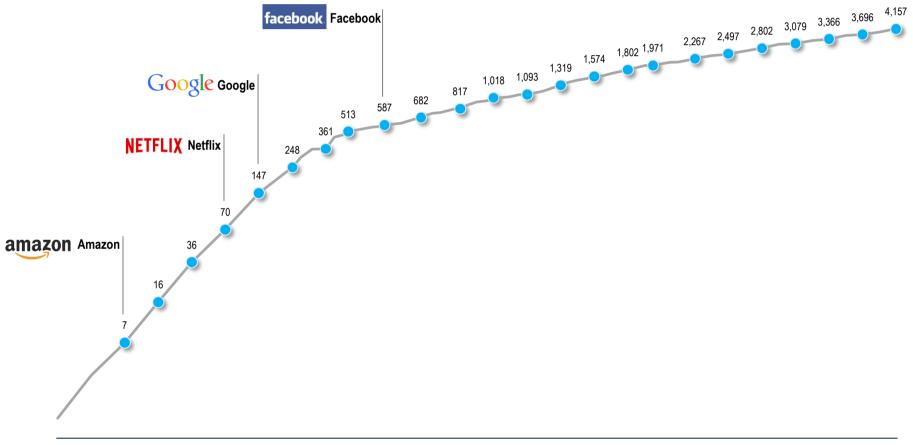

FANG benefitted from the growth of the internet...

FANG has produced sizable gains since 1997 and as shown below, this is function of FANG operating in a secularly growing market.

• From 1998 to now (20 years), the number of global internet users rose from 147 million to 4.2 billion.

FANG: Since '97 to now (~20 years), FANG up 1,567X...

FANG returns have been astounding since 1997.

• The returns generated by FANG stocks was a multiple of the growth in internet users—this makes sense. The idea of network value would argue the value creation would be a multiple of the growth in users. In fact, it is almost a perfect log function.

Millennials are just entering their prime income years

Of the 96 million millennials, about 30 million are just entering their prime income years.

 Thus, the key question from an investment perspective is how the millennials will impact the investment market in the coming decades. After all, each generation seemed to prefer a different investment product.

Millennials maturing autos, peak homebuying and early prime income

To highlight the life cycle of various generations, we have highlighted population distribution and shown the various generations and their respective distribution. Additionally, we shaded the various life cycle behaviors (auto buying, etc.).

 Millennials are now dominating Automobile purchasing, entering homebuying and beginning to generate prime income.

The generative AI (r)evolution

2023 will be remembered as the year artificial intelligence (AI) rose to the forefront of our collective consciousness, ushering in never before seen opportunities and risks. The release of generative AI-powered applications like ChatGPT highlights the potential for AI and machine learning (ML) to reshape how organizations operate. In September, the Zscaler ThreatLabz team conducted an analysis of AI/ML and ChatGPT trends amongst enterprises stretching back across 2023 and, unsurprisingly, discovered upward trajectories in AI/ML traffic and usage.

This adoption brings us to the flip side of the generative Al coin: attackers are leveraging Al tools to elevate and automate phishing campaigns, craft extremely evasive malware, and reduce the development time of threats across the board. Security leaders and enterprises find themselves at a new crossroads, tasked with delicately navigating the interplay of securely leveraging Al's evolutionary advancements while confronting the unforeseen revolutionary challenges of safeguarding against Al-powered threats.

LABOR: Global excess supply of labor is gone, first time since 1973

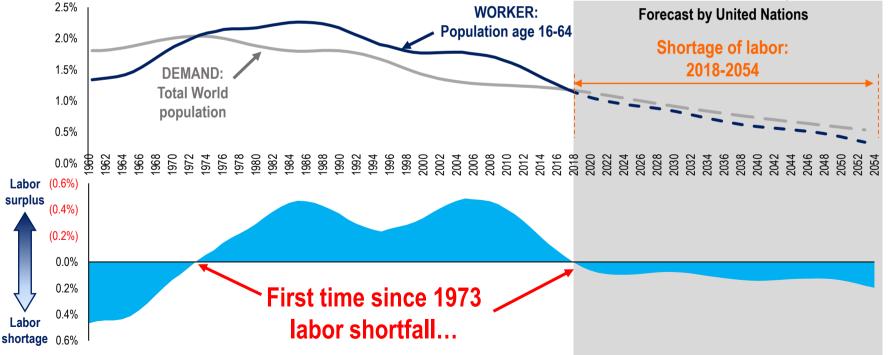

Global labor supply is falling into a deficit. This is shown below and is most acute in high income countries (4.9% labor)

• The decline in labor is widespread (except Africa and India, basically) and total shortfall is 43 million workers.

LABOR SHORTAGE: 78 million shortfall by 2028, 3X size of Canada

The shortfall of workers is acute, reaching an estimated 78 million by 2028, which is roughly 3X the size of Canada.

• The greatest shortfall are in high-income nations with an estimated 4.9% shortfall of the workforce.

AUTOMATION: Technology becomes 50% of S&P 500 weight

We have compared the performance of US Technology stocks (vs S&P 500) and indicated periods of labor shortage.

• The outperformance of Technology during periods of labor shortage is substantial—and we believe the forecasted 2015-2047 to benefit Technology stocks.

Source: Fundstrat, Bloomberg, US Census Bureau, UN DESA

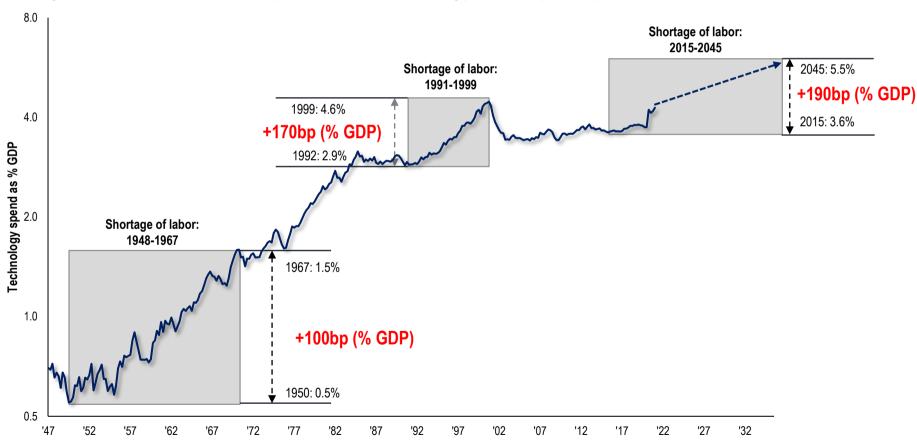

Prior periods of labor shortage saw a surge in Technology spending...

Technology spend (as % GDP) is shown below and the shaded areas show the two prior periods of "labor shortage" (population outstripped worker growth).

- As shown, during both periods, Technology spend rose sharply as % GDP (+100bp, +170bp, respectively). This rise is not surprising—after all, companies meet production demands by automating.
- We believe Technology spend could rise to 5.5% of GDP from 3.6% in 2015 (when the shortage of labor started), given the large labor shortage developing.

Estimate $425b annual spend to automate 8.3mm labor shortfall...

By comparing the projected growth rate of the US population versus that of working age, we can estimate the implied "shortfall" of the pool of age 16-64, and hence, the potential labor shortage.

- Over the next decade, the US Census bureau projects the US population to expand by 7.5% to 355mm but that the age 16-64 population will rise by only 1.2%. As shown below, if age 16-64 grew by 7.5% (vs 1.2%), that is a difference of 13 million—using a 63% participation rate, this implies an 8.3mm shortfall of workers.
- Businesses likely invest in "capital" (automation) to offset this labor shortfall—assuming a labor parity cost of $50,000 per work replaced, this implies ~$415 billion expansion of technology spend (above trend) to replace workers.
